

Jim Yagley – Biography

Since joining Roush in 1989 as a Program Manager, Jim Yagley has been directly involved in the management of the product design and development of more than 15 production niche vehicle programs. In 1997, he was appointed to the Executive Committee, where he was given responsibility for the product engineering and design groups. In 2007, he was also given responsibility for the Roush machining services and engine build groups.

Mr. Yagley is also a member of Roush Enterprises, Inc.'s Steering Committee, which directs the planning and execution of Roush's growth strategy through expansion, acquisitions and joint ventures.

Prior to joining Roush, Mr. Yagley was employed with General Motors Truck and Bus Group. He has over 30 years of experience in the automotive industry.

Mr. Yagley graduated from Lawrence Technological University in 1979 with a BS in Manufacturing. He resides with his wife and three children in Troy, Michigan.